recognized by the examination. The initial measurement of the gap in the ring stiffener must be recorded and maintained by the owner.

(iii) Periodic requalification (after the benchmark inspection) must be in accordance with § 180.407 to the requirements of a DOT specification 407 cargo tank except that:

- (1) The external visual inspections must be performed every 6-months from the date of the benchmark inspection.
- (2) During the external visual inspection the cargo tank facility must measure the ring stiffener gap to determine if expansion has occurred from the benchmark measurement.
- (3) The internal visual inspection must be performed yearly from the date of the benchmark inspection.
- (4) The non-destructive tests and inspections in paragraph (ii) must to be performed every 6 months from the date of the benchmark inspection.

(iv) When the results of the inspection determine the ring stiffener gap has expanded greater than  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch from the benchmark measurement, the cargo tank must be taken out of hazardous materials service and all specification markings must be removed or obliterated.

(v) Prior to being returned to hazardous materials service, the cargo tank motor vehicle must be brought into full conformance with Part 178 which contains the requirements for DOT specification 407 cargo tank motor vehicles. If repaired, the tanks must be repaired by an R-stamp facility.
